

No

No

No

No

No

No

No

No

No

No

Yes

No

No

Yes

No

No

No

No

No

No

No

No

No

No

No

Yes

No

Yes

No

No

Yes

No

No

No

No

I'm happy with what the curriculum covers, but it hardly ever mentions LGBT identities, which is relevant to quite a few students this age who are thinking about their identity.

No

No

No

The RSHE curriculum is very comprehensive and is great at starting conversations you can continue at home. It also covers things I wouldn't have thought to discuss with my children so that is really appreciated.

No

No

No

Yes

No

No

No

No

No

No

No

No

Please enter your comments here:3

I think that year 10 is too late to bring up the topic of suicide. Young people on social media will have heard the term way before that and some may have had suicidal thoughts before year 10. Talking about suicide does not put the idea in peoples heads. Being aware of help available to deal with suicidal thoughts can save lives.

Curriculum must continue to be delivered with respect for children from diverse cultures and religions.

It might be helpful to cover assertive communication, self care, self compassion, setting healthy boundaries? My apologies if they have been covered already. Thanks

I'm wondering where you cover misogyny, manosphere and vulnerable boys being enticed into incel groups.

You may already be doing so but please address the "manosphere"
Also the more local signposting you can give for children who need support the better.